Using the \symbol command you can access any glyph in a font, if you know its position in the encoding. For example, Þ, § or ␣.

However, if available, standard text commands are preferable, because they work correctly in different font encodings.